

Nigeria cuts short

The staffing cuts will impact operations in multiple countries, including Nigeria, Zimbabwe, Cameroon, Colombia, Eritrea, Iraq, Libya, Pakistan, and Turkey--regions already grappling with...

Nigerian lawmakers have approved an additional $200 million (around EUR190 million) for the health sector, saying the funds would be used to "fill the gap" left by the suspension of US foreign ...

In his first two months in office, President Bola Tinubu has ripped the Band-Aid off Nigeria's ailing economy. Time will tell if it can heal, but for now, Nigerians are feeling the pain.

Aid groups are raising the alarm about an unprecedented hunger crisis in northern Nigeria, where the impact of international funding cuts is hitting hard.

ABUJA, Nigeria -- Nigerian lawmakers have approved an additional $200 million for the health sector as part of its 2025 spending plan to offset the shortfall from U.S. aid cuts.

Nigeria will slash import duties on food, vehicles and industrial inputs from July 1, the presidency said on Tuesday, as Africa's most populous country seeks to rein in inflation and ease ...

The Federal Government of Nigeria has approved a sweeping set of fiscal measures for 2026, cutting import duties on key goods such as vehicles, rice, palm oil, and sugar, while introducing new excise ...

In his first two months in office, President Bola Tinubu has ripped the Band-Aid off Nigeria's ailing economy. Time will tell if it can heal, but for now, ...

The massive cut of Official Development Assistance (ODA) from historical donor countries is already taking a toll on Nigeria and other developing countries, constraining the fiscal ...

Discover how reduced international aid impacts Nigeria's healthcare, the push for self-sufficiency, and the role of local investment in transforming the health landscape.

This decision will affect operations in Nigeria and eight other countries, reflecting the agency's need to adjust its structure in response to dwindling resources. U.N. aid chief Tom Fletcher ...

Aid groups are raising the alarm about an unprecedented hunger crisis in northern Nigeria, where the impact of international funding cuts is hitting ...

The massive cut of Official Development Assistance (ODA) from historical donor countries is already taking a toll on Nigeria and other developing ...

Nigeria cuts short

Web: <https://maxtools.co.za>

